

TIKOS bonus credit notes

The module for a sales-based reimbursement

Bonus programmes often have several objectives. For example, they are intended to reward loyal customers or generate additional sales. In the textile care industry, they also enable laundries and customers to better calculate their annual budgets. For example, especially in cooperation with hospitals, certain annual quantities, and corresponding reimbursements can be agreed upon. The TIKOS module bonus credit notes supports you in the calculation of bonus credits using a wide range of complex models.

Variable bonus periods

Basically, different time intervals can be defined with the help of the programme: monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. Group and individual bonuses can also be calculated without any problems. In the case of large corporate customers, for example, individual sub-customers (e.g. individual hospitals) can be calculated separately from the corporate total calculation or group bonus calculation to be able to assign their reimbursement directly.

Bonus calculation considering all parameters

In most cases, monthly bonus payments are assessed, which can be shown directly on the monthly invoice. In addition, a sales-based annual bonus, for example, can be granted. For an exact total bonus calculation, the module considers already paid monthly bonuses. Discounts granted can also be excluded. Individual articles can also be excluded from the bonus calculation. While terry cloth articles are generally eligible for bonuses, flannels, for example, can be excluded. TIKOS considers all customer-specific parameters and provides you with an exact calculation of the agreed rebates.
