

TIKOS Laundry Message

Communicate effectively

Communicating important information quickly and to many employees at the same time is the goal of Laundry Message. This TIKOS module offers an internal communication platform. With little effort, any number of messages can be communicated effectively. From a central point, you determine the reach of your information - whether only on certain monitors in production, in individual departments, or throughout the entire company.

Easy communication

In the administration area of this module, any number of messages can be created as individual data sets. You determine the respective messages as well as the selection of the screens on which your messages are to appear. Depending on the screen size, multiple messages can be displayed simultaneously. The display automatically changes pages if not all messages can be displayed on the screen. The time period can also be set in advance - all day, over several days or limited in time.

Consistent communication

Laundry Message supports a consistent communication structure and thus increases flexibility in your company. Important information can be communicated selectively or widely this way. In the case of customer orders, for example, a change in priority at short notice can be communicated simultaneously to all departments concerned. Laundry Message thus contributes to a smooth production process.

Individual communication

Messages in Laundry Message can be formatted individually. Similar to Microsoft Word©, extensive formatting options are available to the author. Graphics, icons, shapes or pictures can also be inserted. All workstations can be connected to TIKOS Laundry Message, completely independent of the licence.

Advantages

- Quick and easy communication
- Large range of information transfer
- Unlimited number of messages
- Automatic page change for multiple messages
- Extensive formatting options
- License-independent module